Before completing the survey, we would like to make you aware of the following:

- This survey is hosted by Google Forms. The data from the survey will be seen and analysed only by the research team. It will be used in written publications and verbal presentations for academic audiences and the public.
- If we have reason to believe that we have collected personal data from a person under 18 years of age, this information will be deleted and will not be used.
- Ian Cook is responsible for decisions relating to the processing of personal data, and for ensuring its security. These decisions will be overseen by our Faculty Research Ethics Committee to ensure that the collection and storage of your data is fair and legal in accordance with the UK Data Protection Act 2018.
- When we analyse your survey responses, any information that might make you identifiable will be removed to preserve your anonymity in future publications. However, it is your responsibility to decide whether to include information that might compromise your anonymity in ways that the research team could not have anticipated or been aware of.

- Your participation in this survey is voluntary and you are free to withdraw at any time, without giving a reason, prior to submitting your survey responses. However, once you have submitted your responses, the research team are unable to withdraw your data from the study.
- For the purposes of publication, your data will be kept for six years and then destroyed in accordance with university data security standards at that time.
- Your consent is conditional upon the research team complying with its duties and obligations under the UK Data Protection Act 2018.
- If you wish to make a complaint about the research, report something about the research that you are unhappy with, or talk to someone other than the research team about your rights as a research subject, please contact Professor Katy Jenkins, our departmental ethics lead, at katy.jenkins@northumbria.ac.uk
